The Webport.cloud website was based on an outdated and insecure version of Wordpress. it also featured many plugins that, in addition to having update and security problems, significantly slowed down the loading of pages.

The site was not https, a protocol for internet communication that protects the integrity and confidentiality of the data exchanged between computers and sites.

There was no file and database backup system.

It was therefore decided to migrate the website to the latest available version of Webport, 5.7

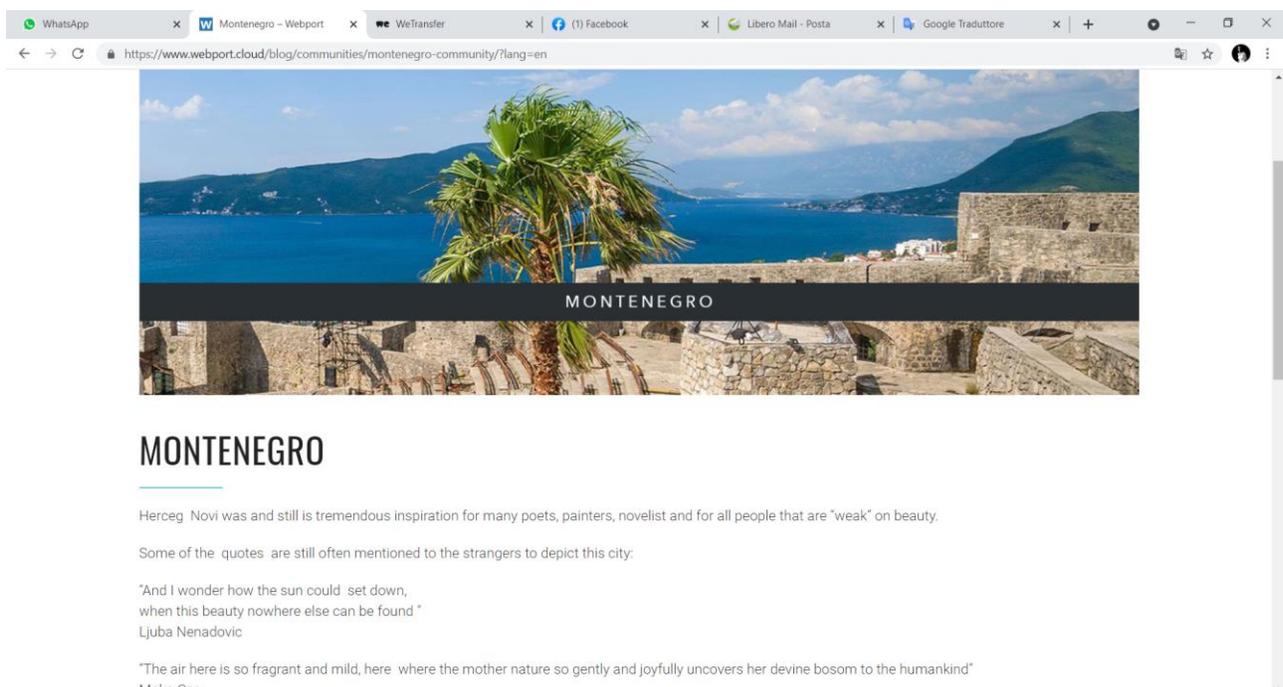

Numerous plugins on the old website have been eliminated. The function is now implemented without the use of special extensions, with the advantage of greater speed and security of the site that will not require further updates in the future.

The WPML plugin used for language management has been updated to the latest version.

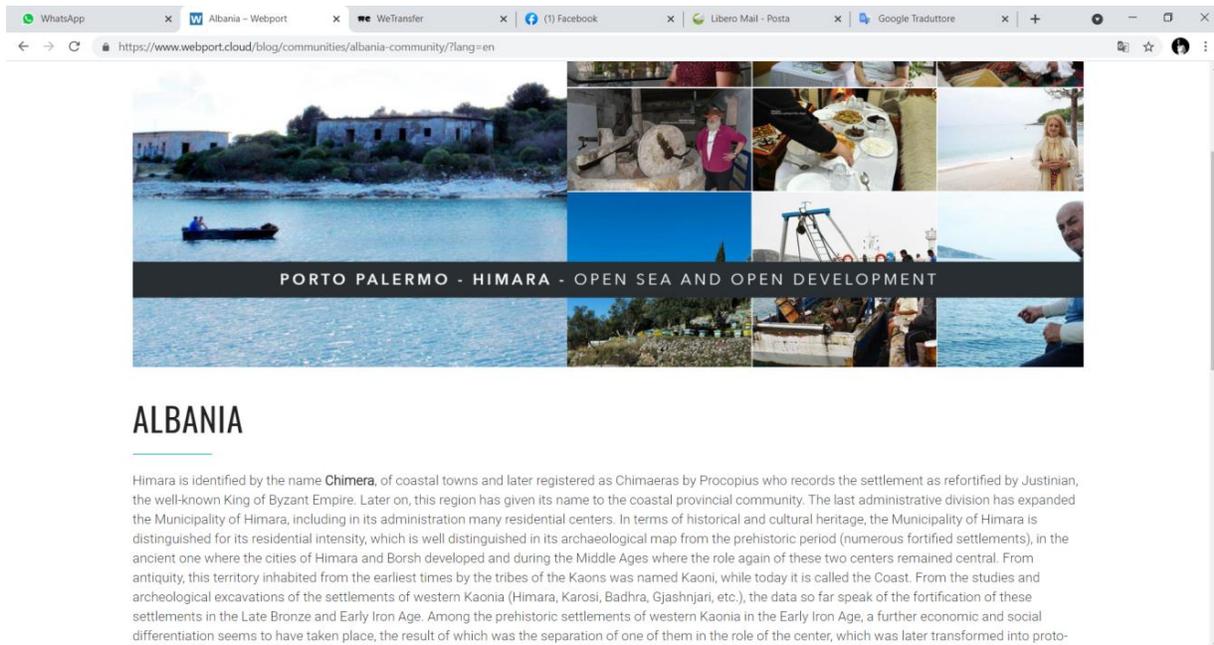

A manual site backup system has been implemented, in addition to the one provided by the hosting.

User tracking has been implemented for Google Analytics.

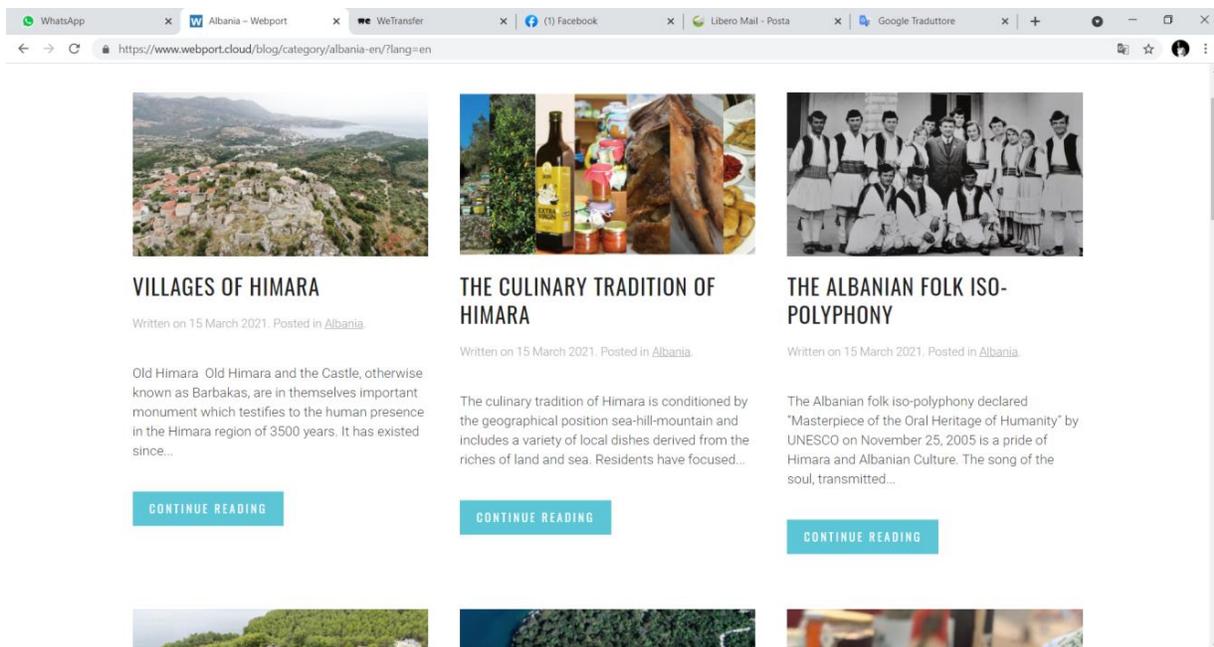

In the section relating to the communities participating in Webport, the page relating to the Herceg Novi community has been created with information and images provided by the partners.

The information of the Albanian community of Himara was updated always with the contribution of the partners.

Also the sections of the Blog relating to the two communities have been updated or created and have been enriched by the information provided by the Albanian and Montenegrin partners

The screenshot shows a web browser with several tabs open. The active tab is 'Montenegro - Webport'. The URL in the address bar is 'https://www.webport.cloud/blog/category/montenegro-en/?lang=en'. 1. Introduction

Himara is identified by the name Chimera, of coastal towns and later registered as Chimaeras by Procopius who records the settlement as refortified by Justinian, the well-known King of Byzant Empire. Later on, this region has given its name to the coastal provincial community. The last administrative division has expanded the Municipality of Himara, including in its administration many residential centers. In terms of historical and cultural heritage, the Municipality of Himara is distinguished for its residential intensity, which is well distinguished in its archaeological map from the prehistoric period (numerous fortified settlements), in the ancient one where the cities of Himara and Borsh developed and during the middle Ages where the role again of these two centers remained central. From antiquity, this territory inhabited from the earliest times by the tribes of the Kaons was named Kaoni, while today it is called the Coast. From the studies and archeological excavations of the settlements of western Kaonia (Himara, Karosi, Badhra, Gjashnjari, etc.), the data so far speak of the fortification of these settlements in the Late Bronze and Early Iron Age. Among the prehistoric settlements of western Kaonia in the Early Iron Age, a further economic and social differentiation seems to have taken place, the result of which was the separation of one of them in the role of the center, which was later transformed into proto-urban and urban centers fortification was found in Himara Castle.

The natural borders of the Himara are the mountain range of Çika and Llogara from the north, the Ionian Sea from the west, and the Cape of Qefal in the south.

The Mediterranean climate prevails throughout Himara. The geographical position has forced the inhabitants of the province to be economically connected not only with the land but also with the sea - with the sea not so much with fishing as with sailing.

The community of the area is very hospitable and loving, above all they have very tasty traditional dishes and are famous for beekeeping. The stunning view to be offered by this village, the natural environment and cultural heritage make it very promising to enrich the tourist offers.

2. Villages of Himara

Old Himara

Old Himara and the Castle, otherwise known as Barbakas, are in themselves important monument which testifies to the human presence in the Himara region of 3500 years. It has existed since the middle of the century. of IV BC. Himara, is included in the Epirot tribe of the Caons and is mentioned in some ancient writings of Homer, the Greek geographer Strabo, Pliny, the English scholar N. Hammond, etc. Historical facts show that Himara is often referred to by the name or toponym Chimera, which represented a mythological being.

In the whole area of Himara, you find worked and carved stones. The stones are carved in the form of animals and plants for religious and superstitious effects. The crowns of the entrances and gates are decorated with various motifs, as are the corners of the windows and houses. The architectural area of Himara Castle has been declared a cultural monument. Anyone who wants to know Himara should definitely visit the castle and the old village.

Village of Dhërmi

The picturesque village of Dhërmi is located on the slope of the mountain, among the oldest villages in the area, with characteristic stone constructions. Historical data suggest that this village on the Albanian coast has been inhabited since ancient times. The village is a historical center and protected area, it consists of three large neighborhoods.

The typical houses of Dhërmi, made of stone, with regular volumes and shapes, tiled roofs, frames with hewn stones and wooden windows, are a worthy representation of the traditional architecture of the entire Himara region. An interesting detail, which is noticed even today, is that the houses do not occupied the light of each other, from each of them you see unique views.

Dhërmiu is characterized especially by the high number of cults of the Orthodox faith, over 30 cult objects, categorizing it as the village with more cult objects.

Village of Vuno

Vuno is one of those villages that contributes greatly to the surrounding area with its history, protagonism in the great events of the nation, as well as its impact on the national culture. The village is located on the shoulders of Mjegullosh Mountain. Characteristic are the stone houses built compacted with each other on the side of the mountain, traditional stone buildings which appear mostly as residential complexes. The cobbled streets, the rugged terrain and the stairs stand out as soon as you start walking around the picturesque village, often even winding under the arches on which the houses stand.

Throughout the village can be seen the homes of many patriotic and education-loving figures. Every house or residential complex has a remarkable history and figure. Vuno's history is enriched by a long list of national heroes, whose names are located above the obelisk in the center of the village, known as Heroes' Square.

Village of Pilur

The village of Pilur, located at an altitude of 700 meters above sea level, is also known as the "Balcony of the Coast" due to the breathtaking view of the coast. In the center of the village is the "St. Kolli Forest", according to the church located nearby. The oaks bio-monument has scientific values for biology, but also aesthetic, environmental, educational, and religious values.

In the center of this small village is a plane tree, under the shade of which men and women were said to sit to sing traditional "labe" songs of Kaonic origin, and where the whole village usually gathered for assembly. Residents have always taken care of the longevity of the tree because it cannot grow on its own in height. The dedication of the natives can also be seen in the enthusiastic preservation of their traditional homes. The houses are located around the center, near which is the forest placed as a crown.

3. Culinary tradition of Himara

The culinary tradition of Himara is conditioned by the geographical position sea-hill-mountain and includes a variety of local dishes derived from the riches of land and sea. Residents have focused their cuisine on meat and dairy by-products, fish, olives, citrus fruits, and local specialties such as honey, glucose, etc. If you go to visit Himara families you will find on the table lamb meat; pies; honey; typical dishes such as Ksirogjak, Përvëlak, Çepele, Faqefurash, etc. Surely you can't stay without enjoying drinks like brandy, wine, liker or fresh juices.

The province of Himara is known for its artisanal crafts in the processing of local products and their conservation. The preservation of culinary traditions can be observed in the form of modernization of production methods. The riches and resources of the area have fostered the creation of authentic traditions of daily life, in addition to adding natural beauties.

4. Iso-polyphony of Himara

The Albanian folk iso-polyphony declared "Masterpiece of the Oral Heritage of Humanity" by UNESCO on November 25, 2005 is a pride of Himara and Albanian Culture. The song of the soul, transmitted by the inhabitants since the time of war, in daily life, in family, cultural and artistic events. This great spiritual wealth of Himarjote is initially portrayed with Neço Muka and Koço Çakali. In 1929, the first records were recorded in Paris, combining the sounds of Neço Muka's polyphony and the classical music of Tefta Tashko.

The history of polyphonic song would be enriched with the creation of the new group in 1949-1950 with receiver Dhimitër Varfin. Other names like Andrea Bala, Panajot Kukaveshi, Lefter Çipa, etc. Everyone has created a love for Himara songs. These events are followed by the voices of old polyphonic music and the voices of the new generation.

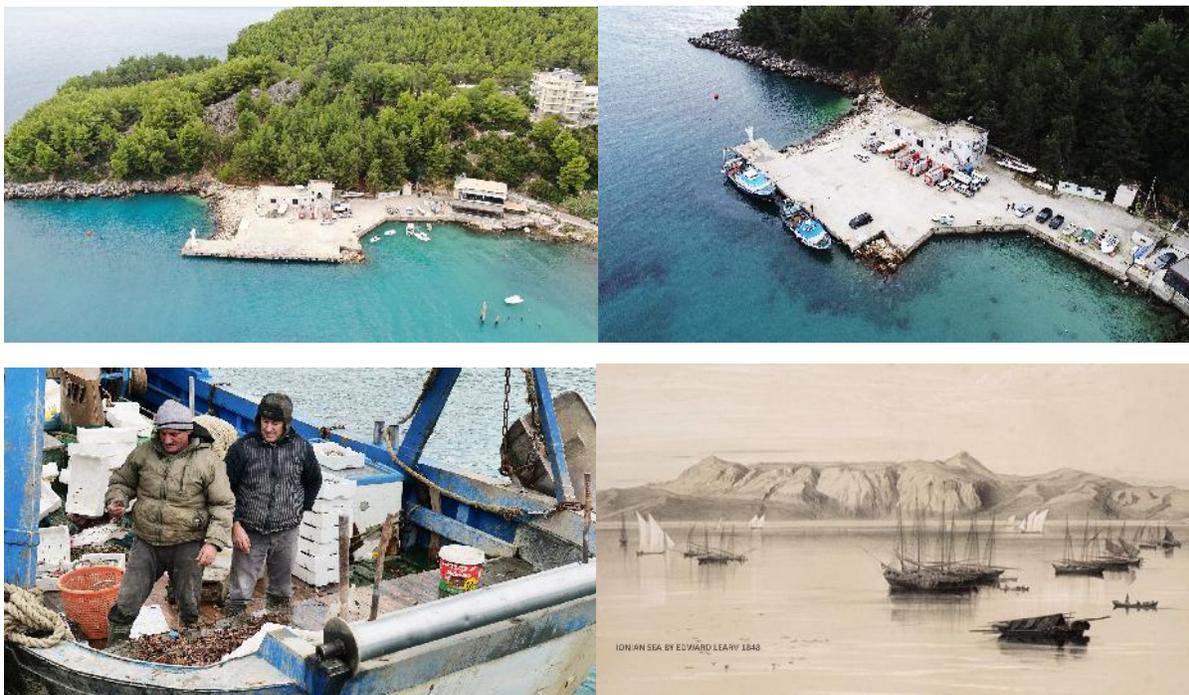

5. Fishing tradition

Evidence indicates that in antiquity Porto Palermo was the abode of merchant and fishing vessels. The fishing activity to meet the demands of businesses and residents of Himara and beyond is carried out mainly by the fishing fleet.

The fishermen of Himara have a long experience on their shoulders and have served the tourism of Himara for many years. Fishermen, mostly those in their late 70s, confess that they experienced different situations under the regimes of the time. Recalling with nostalgia the limitations conditioned by the communist regime until the period of the rapid development of Himara in Democracy. The variety of fish species in the Himara area is relevant. Nowadays fishing has become a tourist attraction through trawlers as well as the consumption of seafood. But there are also those who practice fishing as a sport or spend their free time

6. The castle of Ali Pasha

The castle of Ali Pasha Tepelena is located on the peninsula of Porto Palermo. It has a triangular shape and is located in a geographical position that helped to protect it. On the seaside, we find a trapezoidal surface that is surrounded by walls equipped with turrets. The rest consists of a large number of rooms covered with arches. The current castle was rebuilt in 1819 with an area of 4-5 hectares, with three entrances and three towers.

The castle is much older than Ali Pasha, he has restored it as a gift to one of his wives, Vasiliqia. The source of light in the castle are the "bedenat", from where the fresh sea air enters and the view that appears from them is rare. From there you can see the coast and the Bay of Brides, according to legends, where Ali Pasha's bride, Vasiliqia, bathed. In this castle, Ali Pasha Tepelena also received George Byron. His figure and verses are found today carved in a bronze bas-relief, on the castle walls.

The source of light in the castle are the "bendones", from where the fresh sea air enters and the view that appears from them is rare. From there you can see the coast and the Bay of Ardes, according to legends where Ali Pasha's bride, Vasilika, bathed in this castle. Ali Pasha's treasure also included George Byron, his figure and vessel are found today carved in a bronze bas-relief, on the castle walls.

THE HONEY FESTIVAL IN HIMARA

In the second week of August, the Honey Festival was held in Himara, an event organized by the Municipality of Himara in collaboration with the Ministry of the Environment and the CNVD.

The event was attended by over 80 companies that promoted their products. Beekeeping in the Himara area is an ancient tradition and honey produced in the area is one of the most popular not only in the local market but also in the foreign market.

The event was an important showcase to promote not only honey but also other local products including mountain tea, blueberries, wild rose, walnuts and hazelnuts, apples, grapes and any tasty animal products.

Visitors who took part in the event also showed great interest in handicrafts such as stone, wood and foodstuffs.

THE ALBANIAN FOLK ISO-POLYPHONY

The Albanian folk isopolphony declared "Masterpiece of the Oral Heritage of Humanity" by UNESCO on November 26, 2005 is a pride of Himara and Albanian Culture. 1. Introduction

Although Herceg Novi is the youngest town in Montenegro, due to its location and lush greenery, it attracts special attention. It lies on the slopes of mount Orjen, the tallest of the Dinaric massifs, while at the same time it faces one of the most beautiful bays in the world-Boka Kotorska.

They call it the „green city“, the „sun city“ and the „city of artists“ with very good reason. Due to its southern exposure, sea front position and, at the foot of a mountain location, Herceg Novi has been blessed with an unusual micro climate. It has on average more than 200 sunny days a year and 10.7 sunny hours per day in July and August. The average annual temperature of the air is 16.2 ° C, the same as the Mediterranean cities of Naples and Lisabon. The temperature doesn't fluctuate very much; it has a daily variation of no more than 4 ° C.

The sea water in the bay is maximum 61 meters deep and has an average dept of 27,8 meters. The annual rainfall is 1.930 mm/m², with up to 80% moisture in the air in Autumn and about 63% in Summer. The average air temperature from May to September is above 25° C, with the water temperature being 22-26° C. These factors contribute to swimming in the sea being possible for more than 5 months a year.

There are number of wind factors characteristic for the area: Maestral (blows in summer from the west), Bura (blows in winter from the north), Šilok (southern-all year round) and Jugo (southern, in winter).

Herceg Novi is an administrative, cultural and business centre of the Municipality, which covers 235 km² and has a population of 31.000 inhabitants. The geographical coordinates of the town are 42°27 nort geographical width and 18°33 east geographical length

I. Discovering Herceg Novi History history, through:

- i. Visiting cultural sites
- ii. Visiting art galleries and museums
- iii. Fortress climbing and sightseeing

II. Enjoying the beauty of the life in Herceg Novi, through:

- i. Festive Traditions
- ii. Visits to thematic festival

III. Discovering immaterial heritage and living style of Herceg Novi , through:

- i. Meeting rich artistic and bohemian past of Herceg Novi
- ii. Getting to know numerous stories of life and light motives of the internationally recognized artists that decided to settle and create in Herceg Novi

2. Mimosa Festival in Herceg Novi

Mimosa flower which blossoms and defies winter, transforming the whole coast of Herceg Novi into a splendid garden, is a symbol of the festival and winter tourism of Boka Bay and Montenegrin coastline. Mimosa festival is organized every year in February.

It was established in 1969 by Tourism Alliance of Boka Bay and the Herceg Novi Municipality. Jovanka Broz, the first lady of Yugoslavia, opened the festival in 1975.

The Festival comprises a wide array of programmes with the most attractive ones being: carnival parades, costume parties for children and adults, Mimosa, Fish and Wine Festivities, which gathers around 20 000 guests each year, the International Flower Exhibition and promenade concerts of brass orchestras and majorettes. This promenade so far has crossed 80000 kilometers.

Exhibitions, concerts, literary and stage programs in local productions and guest performances by well-known artists from the region, in addition to presentation of cultures and gastro traditions of countries and towns – friends of Herceg Novi, all render the festival programme exceptionally comprehensive.

There are many sports competitions and adventure challenges in nature during Mimosa Festival, all owing to the very favourable climate conditions in Herceg Novi.

Mimosa Festival has grown into a complex tourism and cultural event with a multitude of visitors from the whole region. The executive producer and organizer of the Mimosa Festival is PCI Herceg Fest.

The most famous event is Mimosa, fish and wine festival and it is held along the villages of Kumbor, Đenovići and Baošići every first Saturday in February with majorettes and city music.

For a half a century, this festival has become the pride of locals who with it wish welcome to spring and people of good will, who will find a warm welcome in Herceg Novi all year round. The very famous art event following the Festival of Mimosa is Herceg Novi Winter Art Saloon since 1968. Mimosa Festival is a traditional tourism-promoting ceremony honouring mimosa flower, one of the most significant and long-standing festivals in Balkan region.

3. Fortresses of Herceg Novi

Massive silent, but vivid witnesses of rich history and culture and significant geo- strategic position of Herceg Novi are its fortresses that were build during the centuries or the development of this town. If the visitor wants to know more about the past of Herceg Novi then he or she should meet its fortresses. Each fortress in Herceg Novi symbolizes an era of foreign rulers of the city in different historic period. Spagnola is Spanish fortress, Kanli Kula was made by Turks, Forte Mare dating from Middle Ages was reconducted by Turks and Venetians...

Spagnola – Spanish Fortress is located on one of the high hills in Herceg Novi, at 170 meters above sea level. The hill on the top of which the fortress was built is called Bajer.

The fortress is located in the northeastern part of the Old Town of Herceg Novi, near the main highway along the coast and which connects many cities in Greece, Albania, Montenegro, Bosnia and Croatia.

Outside the bastion looks very impressive and although there is almost nothing left inside the fortress, it is definitely worth a visit. In addition to the amazing view of the surroundings, the fortress can offer a kind of journey into the past. Here you can still see ancient barracks, shooting ranges and various auxiliary facilities, touch the mighty walls and military installations that are currently in the power of nature (ivy, grass and trees) and disappear before our eyes, but nevertheless retain the rebellious spirit of old times.

The owners of the city in just one year (1538-1539) managed to found this fortress (1538) and began to build, and the final and inaccessible form was created by the Ottoman Empire.

Forte Mare – The Sea fortress is located on the rocks in the southern part of the old town of Herceg Novi near the main city port of Herceg Novi, along the coast of the Bay of Kotor. Legend says that the first stone was laid here in the late 14th century by the Bosnian king Tvrtko to protect the city from the attacks from the sea.

The monument to the king is located on the promenade opposite the fortress. The fortress has been renovated many times and is very different from its original appearance. Until the 18th century, the fortress was called a Jaka kula or „Kula Abaspaše”. In 1833, the fortress was reconstructed and it still looks like that today with many secret passages and steps.

In 1952 a theater and an entrance for tourists were built on the territory of the fortress. Later, concerts of various stars began to be held. Now, fortress is a famous tourist attraction. From the upper floor there is a beautiful panoramic view of the city and the Adriatic Sea.

The Sea fortress is a symbol of the city of Herceg Novi and a historical landmark of Montenegro.

Kanli kula fortress is a fortress from the Turkish period. Today, it has been turned into an open stage and tourist attraction . Especially interesting is the cistern that has been turned into a prison cell with numerous drawings on the walls.

4. Herceg Novi Comic-book Festival

Herceg Novi Comic book Festival (Hercegnovski strip festival – HSF) is the only comic convention in Montenegro. Nikola Curcin, a local painter, comic book artist and musician founded this event in 2007 with an idea to promote and educate the public about the „ninth art.“ The festival has grown each year and it has established itself as the prime destination for the world’s best comic book artists and a must-attend festivity for the comic book fans all across the Balkan region.

HSF is a six-day event that always starts on the first Friday in September. It is an event comprised of art exhibits, live drawing and signing sessions, presentations, promotions, comic book sales, and live music concerts each evening. All the festival programs happen on a different location throughout the Herceg Novi Old Town, and are free of charge for the public!

HSF team also organizes an event called Herceg Novi Comic book Weekend. Somewhat smaller in scope, this event focuses on a single subject or a star artist. It is a winter event that was founded in 2016, with similar programs as the original festival and is hugely gaining in popularity.

HSF is known for its incredible fun and huge music concerts that complement the comic books program. The nights and parties at HSF are unforgettable. Some of the biggest regional music stars have performed at this festival, along with the young and upcoming bands. Our guests also enjoy a variety of side activities such as sailing, scuba diving, jet skiing, salsa dancing, sight seeing, etc.

Herceg Novi Comic book Festival had a great pleasure of hosting some of the world’s absolute top artists working for the biggest publishing houses such as Marvel, DC Comics, Image and Dark Horse as well as the biggest European stars working for French editors Les Humanoïdes Associés, Dargaud, Soleil, Glenat, Lombard and the Italian powerhouse Sergio Bonelli Editore.

The list of world known artists that have already been special guests of HSF includes Eisner Award winner Glenn Fabry and the greats Enrique Breccia, Esad Ribic, RM Guera, Mike Collins, Igor Kordej, Zoran Janjetov, Javi

Fernandez, Rufus Dayglo, Fernando Dagnino, Andrea Di Vito, Mirko Čolak, Toni Fejzula, Boo Cook, Simon Davis, Goran Sudžuka, Darko Macan, Werther Dell'Edera, etc.

Special list is reserved for the Italian comic book stars as their comic books are the most popular ones in Montenegro, and the HSF has gained quite a reputation in Italy. Some of the notables are Mario Alberti, Walter Venturi, Giorgio Pontrelli, Davide De Cubellis, Fabio Celoni, Pasquale Del Vecchio, Walter Trono, Jovito Nuccio, Paolo Mottura, Enea Riboldi, Maurizio Di Vincenzo, etc.

One name stands out a little bit above the others – William Simpson, a two-time Emmy Award winner for his work on the TV show „Game of Thrones“. Will has become a regular guest of all editions of HSF and has been named the official HSF Ambassador in the world. If you plan to visit HSF, you should be absolutely certain that you will meet Will and get a sketch from him.

Herceg Novi Comic book festival is an unforgettable experience for any comic book and visual arts fan. Visitors can come and meet their heroes up close and personal and share a talk or a beer with them. From the mornings to late late nights, for six straight days, the whole town enters a magical world of great stories, amazing characters, incredible talent and loads of positivity. Complemented with beautiful weather, sea and the sand, this is a Festival you do not want to miss, ever.

5. The School of Fine Arts Cetinje-Herceg Novi

The School of Fine Arts was founded in Cetinje in 1946 and even with the rank of high school it significantly influenced the development of fine arts in Montenegro.

Milo Milunović was a professor, and the director of the school was Petar Lubarda. Because of that function, Lubarda left the Academy of Fine Arts in Belgrade, where he was a professor, and he was already a famous painter in Europe, and returned to Montenegro. These famous Montenegrin artists, with the support of Cetinje artists and important personalities of Montenegro, managed to educate talented staff who rose to independent artists – creators. Due to the lack of space, the school worked within the elementary school “Njegos” in Cetinje, where the studios of Petar Lubarda and Milo Milunovic were also located. The school had 4 classrooms for 40 students and operated for two years.

Since 1948, the School of Fine Arts has been moved to Herceg Novi, a city that provided ideal conditions for the painting ambitions of future artists. Its new director was Miloš Vušković, a painter and cartoonist, who reorganized the work in the school and boarding school. Professors Veliša Leković, Luka Berberović, Luka Tomanović, Boris Verigo, Darko Đurišić, Vojo Stanić were the artists who replaced Lubarda and Milunović.

By a decree of the Government of the People's Republic of Montenegro from 1952, the institution changed its name to the School of Applied Arts. Luka Tomanović was director. Another change of name followed in 1957 when the Executive Council of SR Montenegro passed the Decree on the organization and work of the School of Arts and Crafts. It worked under this name until 1963, when the Decree of the Executive Council of the SRCG began to be gradually abolished. This meant that enrollment in the school was no more, and the students who were enrolled continued their education until 1966/1967, when the school stops working. The last director of the School of Arts and Crafts was Srđan Kovačević.

The big names of her students, such as Berkuljan, Filipović, Tošković, Dado, Tatar, Jovičević and other students left a lasting mark on the Montenegrin art scene, as well as Živko Nikolić, who brought a recognizable spirit and humor in dramaturgy from the Art School.

17 generations passed through the School with 459 enrolled and 324 graduates.

The art school ceased operations in 1967. Although 50 years have passed since then, its influence is very significant even today, especially in Cetinje and Herceg Novi. Some of its principals, professors and students have become big names in the fine arts of Montenegro, the former Yugoslavia, and even Europe.

HERCEG NOVI COMIC BOOK FESTIVAL (HERCEGNOVSKI STRIP FESTIVAL – HSF)

By amministratore | Comments are Off

Herceg Novi Comic book Festival (Hercegnovski strip festival – HSF) is the only comic convention in Montenegro. Nikola Curcin, a local painter, comic book artist and musician founded this event in 2007 with an idea to promote and educate the public about the „ninth art.“ The festival has grown each year and it has established itself as the prime destination for the world’s best comic book artists and a must-attend festivity for the comic book fans all across the Balkan region.

HSF is a six-day event that always starts on the first Friday in September. It is an event comprised of art exhibits, live drawing and signing sessions, presentations, promotions, comic book sales, and live music concerts each evening. All the festival programs happen on a different location throughout the Herceg Novi Old Town, and are free of charge for the public!
